India's independence was a result of the valiant efforts of the righteous warriors

Anand Study Center, a hub of educational excellence, marked the 77th anniversary of India's hard-fought independence with a celebration that resonated with calls for unity, progress, and a steadfast commitment to constitutional values.

Addressing a gathering of students, teachers, and guests, Macha Saikumar, a mathematics teacher at the institution, drew parallels between freedom and righteous struggle. He emphasized that India's independence was a result of the valiant efforts of those who fought for justice and liberty. He lamented the persistent challenges of poverty, hunger, and illiteracy that still plague certain pockets of the nation and urged for collective action to address these issues.

In a solemn moment, a two-minute silence was observed in honor of the victims of the tragic Manipur massacre.

Hindi Pandit Sheikh Shabana delivered a passionate address stressing the importance of nurturing patriotism rooted in constitutional ideals. She called upon citizens to channel the hard-won freedom into holistic development and progress for the country.

The celebrations took on an inspiring tone as the national flag was unveiled, a symbol of the unity and diversity that define the nation. The event was graced by the presence of Principal Teetla Kiran and dedicated teachers who have been instrumental in guiding students towards academic excellence and personal growth.

In recognition of academic achievements, the founder of Anand Study Center, Teetla Jakaranna, awarded cash rewards to students, Sheikh Aksana Firadousi and P Ashwini, who secured remarkable scores of 542 and 524 marks in their class ten examinations last year. Also, Principal Teetla Kiran and teachers were bestowed with incentive gifts for their dedicated services.

Anand Study Center played host to a gathering that was not just a celebration of independence but also a fervent reminder of the responsibilities that come with freedom. The event served as a call to action and to harness the power of education, unity, and constitutional spirit to uplift the nation and create a brighter future for all.
